

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Nuisance Dog Barking Increases as the Weather Warms

Hemet, CA - March 8, 2017 - "Every year as the weather warms, nuisance dog barking issues increase," according to Jesse Breedlove, the founder of the websites Got Barking?® and Bark Ender™.

It's that time of year when the weather warms and dog owners allow their pets to spend more time outside. It is not a coincidence that nuisance barking issues increase as people start to relax, barbecue, and work in their yards, as well as sleep with their windows open.

What may seem like a relatively small problem among neighbors, can actually escalate quickly into violent confrontation. There are many stories of nuisance dog barking resulting in arguments, physical altercations, and even gun violence.

Excessive dog barking is against the law in most areas.

If you have a dog that barks excessively, you know that bark training is not easy, even if you have the time and dedication. Most dog owners will not put a bark collar on their pets.

Pet ownership is a huge responsibility. Controlling the amount of noise that your dog makes will not only make your home more enjoyable, but your neighbor's will really appreciate it. If you are not sure if your dog's barking is a nuisance, reach out to your neighbors and ask them if your dog's barking is a problem.

If your neighbor's barking dog is affecting your quality of life, you should contact the dog owner before the situation escalates. You have the right to the peaceful enjoyment of your home.

Take your life back! Visit our newly revamped Bark Ender™ website to contact the dog owner anonymously.

The best case scenario is if the dog owner accepts responsibility and remedies the situation.

Got Barking?® (www.gotbarking.com) along with Bark Ender™ (www.barkender.com) have been providing solutions to dog owners and the neighbors of barking dogs since 2010.
